

Thirteenth Biennial ASLE Conference: Access and Accommodation

ASLE recognizes that sustainability relies on three pillars: ecological, economic, and social justice. We are therefore committed to creating a conference in which all people can participate, and which disrupts the social construction of dis/ability along with other social injustices. In accordance with our Access Guidelines (see the ASLE website), the following are some of the ways in which ASLE will support access at the 2019 conference in Davis:

1. We are confirming the availability of any accessible campus dormitory accommodations during the conference. Fully ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) accessible accommodations will be available at:

Hyatt Place UC Davis
Aggie Inn
Best Western Palm Court Hotel
University Park Inn and Suites
Best Western University Lodge
The Vine Inn
Days Inn Davis
Hallmark Inn

2. All plenary sessions, concurrent sessions, receptions, seminars, workshops, and film screenings will be wheelchair accessible. Accessible washrooms will be available near to all plenary sessions and receptions, and we are endeavoring to schedule all other sessions in buildings that also have these facilities.
3. Participants requesting ASL or visual aids at workshops, seminars, interest groups, and/or concurrent sessions are asked to contact asleconference2019@gmail.com a month prior to the conference.
4. All presenters are asked to bring a copy of their presentation (or slides, notes, script, or précis, as appropriate to the form of presentation) to the conference in electronic form. If, with advance notice, a participant requests a copy of the presentation for visual support, we ask that you either provide a USB to that participant or print a copy of the presentation for use during the session (participants must return the hard copy and/or erase the file if requested by the presenter). A designated printer will be available at the conference registration desk for this purpose.
5. Participants with food allergies and sensitivities should contact events@ucdavis.edu at least one month prior to the conference.
6. Leading up to the conference, all panel chairs will be sent guidelines about running sessions to facilitate access, including such issues as chair placement (leaving space for wheelchairs, aisle access) and protocols for presenters to facilitate inclusion of participants requiring visual and other support.
7. There will be accessible field trip options; please contact the ASLE 2019 local organizers for further details at asleconference2019@gmail.com

To request ASL or other support at ASLE 2019, to inquire about food allergies and sensitivities, and for other specific requests concerning support at the conference, please contact events@ucdavis.edu and info@asle.org.

UC Davis takes proactive measures to ensure that structural barriers do not limit program access. All new University buildings or facilities are built in accordance with applicable campus standards, California state building codes and ADA design standards. If you have questions or comments about ASLE access policies, please contact Amy McIntyre at info@asle.org.

For all participants:

As you are preparing your panel or presentation, please consider the following recommendations from the ASLE Access Guidelines:

- Speak as clearly and distinctly as possible, but do not shout.
- Use regular speed unless asked to slow down by members of the audience, sign interpreters, or persons using real-time captioning.
- Make eye contact with the audience (as possible) and avoid monotone and/or rushed speech, which can make it difficult for many people to absorb the ideas in a presentation.
- Use a microphone when provided. Microphones should be held (as possible) at a distance from the mouth such that it will pick up your voice while not muffling the sound.
- Do not communicate key information solely in gesture or visual reference.
- Avoid speaking from a darkened area of the room.
- Avoid turning away from the audience while speaking.
- Some people read lips, so the audience should have a direct and clear view of the speaker's mouth and face.
- Eye contact and comments should be directed to the person who is deaf and not to the sign language interpreter.
- Comments should be addressed directly to participants with disabilities and not to their companions.

- Allow ample time for questions and answers.
- Because microphones often fail to pick up voices in the audience, the chair should always repeat questions or statements made by members of the audience.
- In Q&A or discussions, only one person should speak at a time, and speakers should identify themselves so that audience members will know who is talking.
- ASLE permits the taping/recording of presentations for reasons of accessibility. Those presenters who wish to not be recorded/taped must communicate this to the audience ahead of time.
- Conference participants should refrain from wearing perfumes or scented products as scented products may contain chemicals that can cause problems for people with asthma, allergies, and environmental illness.
